Adapting and Enhancing the Lean Tools to Suit High-Mix Low-Volume Manufacturing using Industrial Engineering (IE) Science

A Workshop for Small and Medium-size Manufacturers organized by OSU ISE Department in partnership with IIE Columbus Chapter

~ Only 13 seats left ~

Fundamental Goal of This Workshop

Despite the brilliance of the legendary Toyota Production System, IE's have a unique opportunity to develop the next generation of computer-aided "Lean Tools" first developed at/by Toyota. Many of those tools tend to be charts that are produced manually and analyzed using over-simplified quantitative techniques. This workshop will demonstrate quantitative methods that have been developed to enhance the Lean Tools, to support the problem-solving skills of the Lean practitioner and promote the real-world application of correct Operations Research methods, especially for high-mix low-volume SME's and jobshops.

Presentation Topics

- An Industrial Engineering Approach to Fast and Focused Waste Elimination in Any Process Network of Processes.
- Setup Reduction on a Forging Press using Facility Layout and Project Scheduling Software.

- A Tutorial on Viable and Synergistic Strategies for Scheduling and Shopfloor Management in Any Jobshop.
- Mapping and Scheduling of All Value Streams that Comprise a Complete Multi-Component Fabricated Product without using Value Stream Mapping.

Registration Fee: FREE

There is no registration fee. However, every attendee is responsible for bringing or buying their own lunch that day. As a courtesy service, an onsite caterer will take orders in the morning and deliver lunch at noon.

Please refer to the attached brochure and agenda for complete details. If you would like to attend, see the attached Registration form.
